The Story of our Racking Inspection Software

Econform was founded on the 5th of April 2018 by Stewart MacDonald, a seasoned SEMA racking inspector who understood the pain points during inspections and the challenges faced by clients when trying to get quotes for repairs or replacement components. His vision was to streamline the process and make it more efficient for both inspectors and clients.

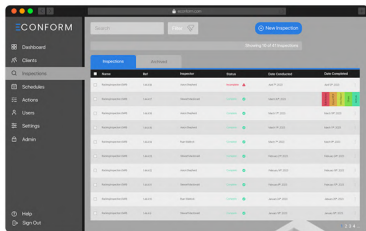

As fate would have it, Gary Coleman was independently exploring similar ideas from the customer's perspective. Gary recognised that the process was often delayed due to interpretations from inspectors, suppliers, and installers, resulting in longer wait times for repairs and even failed works due to inaccurate information. He believed that an app could make life easier for suppliers, leading to greater customer satisfaction by getting their equipment back in operation as soon as possible and ensuring a safer working environment.

In October 2020, Thomas Pearson joined Econform as a Director, bringing his expertise and passion to the team. The following year, in March 2022, Nene Tech Group saw the potential in Econform and acquired the majority of shares in the company. Gary Coleman was subsequently appointed as a Director of Econform in November 2022.

Today, Econform has three directors and a dedicated team member, working together to revolutionise the racking inspection process. The initial meeting between Thomas, Gary, and Stewart, which took place in an airport in Glasgow, marked the beginning of a journey filled with innovation and collaboration. By combining their unique perspectives and experiences, they have created a platform that addresses the needs of inspectors, suppliers, and clients, making the entire process more efficient, accurate, and safe.

Warehouse Pallet Racking Inspections

Econform is dedicated to providing you with the highest quality racking inspection services through our network of SEMA Approved Racking Inspectors (SARI) across the UK. Our expert inspectors utilise the powerful Econform platform to ensure that your warehouse racking systems are compliant with industry standards and function safely and efficiently. By partnering with Econform, you gain access to a wealth of knowledge and experience, as well as a seamless and streamlined inspection process.

Our SARI inspectors are trained professionals who understand the complexities of warehouse racking systems and the importance of regular inspections. With their expertise, they will thoroughly assess your racking infrastructure and provide detailed reports that are easily accessible through the Econform platform. At the end of every inspection, the platform generates an instant bill of materials, reducing location downtime for decision-makers and streamlining the repair or replacement process. This collaboration between Econform's innovative technology and SARI inspectors' proficiency allows for a comprehensive and efficient inspection service, tailored to your warehouse's unique requirements. Trust in Econform and our network of skilled inspectors to maintain a safe and optimised warehouse environment.
